To Every Lady

visiting our store we will give the current issue of "What to Eat," the most beautiful artistic and reliable epicurean magazine in the world. We have made arrangements to procure this magazine for distribution each month, as we believe the time has come when great interest should be taken in the subject of pure foods, and we know of no other publication of prominence that has taken so honest a stand in its opposition to adulterated and fraudulent goods of every kind. Then, too, in addition to this, "What to Eat" is the only entertaining magazine on the food subject published in this country, its pages being full of suggestions for entertaining, jests for the table, bright stories and practical menus and recipes, and, in fact, all topics of value, not only to every housewife, but to the gentlemen of sughouse hold and club. The merit and standing of the magazine may be realized from the thousands of flattering newspaper notices of the press in all parts of the world. Here are a few:

"A most artistic and excellent magazine."—Paris edition of the New York Herald.
"Almost good enough to eat."—Philadelphia Call.
"Printed exquisitely, illustrated delightfully."—London Epicure.
"In every way superb."—Boston Globe.
"Unique in its conception and artistic excellence."—Christian Intelligencer.
"Bright and interesting as usual."—Omaha Bee.
"In many respects it leads many of the popular magazines."—Scranton Republican.

that he could have $2 a day, and he went back down into the pit and is now wider than ever.

This peculiar wild man has a brother who has for some time been wandering about in civilization, and a romantic meeting occurred between the two yesterday. The civilized brother paid his dime to see the wild man, not dreaming that he was to see his own long-lost brother. After gazing into the pit for a few moments, his eyes resting on the raw meat and huge steel chains rather than the creature so securely bound, he looked at the well-advised wild man. He started as if about to scream. He then caught the wild man's eyes, and they recognized each other. They both broke out in a big ha! ha! the wild man laughing just like his civilized brother.
The management did not allow the two to get together, but hurriedly ejected the civilized brother. As the wild man had just received a raise of 50 cents a day he was satisfied to let his brother continue to wander in the walks of civilization.

ABOUT $50,000 WAGERED IN PHILADELPHIA.

Philadelphia, October 18.—About $50,000 has been wagered in Philadelphia on the general result of the election. Probably the largest bet was made by Edward Foerderer, a brother of Robert H. Foerderer, manufacturer and republican candidate for congressman-at-large. Edward Foerderer wagered $10,000 to $4,000 put up by William J. Thompson, of Gloucester, N. J., that McKinley would be re-elected. Odds are 2-1 or 3-1 in favor of McKinley.
There is plenty of McKinley money, but few Bryan takers.

ARE AWAITING.

Shamoken, Pa., October 18.—The miners here are awaiting a notice from President Mitchell and will not agree to go to work until such notice has been received.
